Just 1466 villagers in Maha benefitted from housing scheme in last 2 years

NITIN AGRAWAL
NEW DELHI, FEB 3

The Rural Housing Interest Subsidy Scheme (RHIS) of the Modi government, which promised all the villagers their own homes by 2022, has provided only a few beneficiaries. The government says that most of the people were not benefited because many public sector banks did not join the scheme. Only 1466 villagers of Maharashtra have been able to get benefit of the scheme in the last two years.

Union agriculture minister Narendra Singh Tomar at Parliament House during the ongoing Budget Session in New Delhi on Wednesday.

Rural Development Minister Narender Singh Tomar has said that an amount of only ₹ 4.19 crore was given to these people of Maharashtra. According to the minister during the last two years, ₹ 12.21 crore subsidy was utilized under the scheme. He admitted that fewer people were applying for the RHIS, which was launched with an aim to provide homes to all by 2022. The minister told the Rajya Sabha that major public sector banks such as the State Bank of India, Punjab National Bank, Canara Bank, UCO Bank and Indian Bank have not entered into an agreement to join the scheme. In such a situation, beneficiaries could not be identified. Those who wanted to take advantage of the scheme could not get loan without guarantee to the banks.

In a written reply to a question by Shiv Sena's Gajanan Kirtikar, Tomar said that the National Housing Bank (NHB) has been made the nodal agency for the scheme, through which the scheduled banks, housing finance companies, regional rural banks, state cooperative banks, urban cooperative banks, small finance banks, NBFCs and MFIs have been included as lending institutions for the beneficiaries. The beneficiary takes loan from these institutions for the house. Interest subsidy is given at the rate of 3 per cent on the principal of the loan. According to the information provided by the minister, a total of 902 villages across the country have benefited from the scheme through 14 financial institutions and banks. For this, ₹12.21 crore were given to these financial institutions until January 14 as subsidy on interest.

Govt orders Twitter to take down handles

Hashtags suggesting farmer genocide

New Delhi, Feb 3: The government on Wednesday ordered Twitter to immediately take down handles and hashtags that suggested a farmer genocide was being planned, saying such mistakes and inflammatory content will incite passion, and impact public order. It warned Twitter of penal action in case of failure to comply with its directive. In a strongly-worded notice to Twitter, the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology said it had on January 31 asked the micro-blogging site to block 257 URLs (web addresses) and one hashtag under the relevant provision of the law as they were "spreading information about farmer's protests and has the potential to lead to incidents of violence affecting public order situation in the country".
